

Join the Friends of Joaquin Miller Park

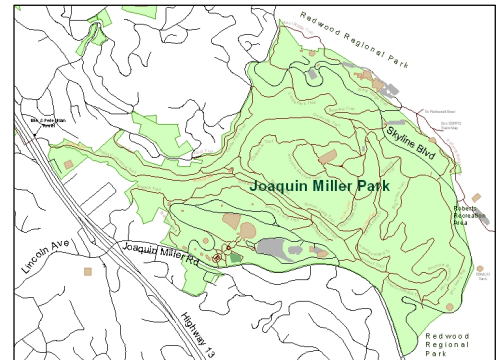

Become a Friend of Joaquin Miller Park (FOJMP) and help support Oakland's jewel in the hills. Friends of Joaquin Miller Park includes hikers, mountain bikers, equestrians, dog owners, cross country runners, historians, writers, environmentalists and neighbors of all ages, who are dedicated to maintaining, preserving and enhancing the rich natural legacy of this 500-acre park, following in the footsteps of the Lisjan Ohlone people and the late 19th-Century poet and naturalist, Joaquin Miller, who lived on and loved this place in times past.

FOJMP is working to improve trail safety, signage and usability, restore the Woodminster Cascade, enhance and protect native understory in the redwoods, and to make other improvements that will enhance your enjoyment of the Park.

Joaquin Miller Park also needs your volunteer time to help with the planning and implementation of many of these projects. You can help plant native plants or remove invasives, contribute to trail maintenance efforts, help install trail signs, pick up trash, maintain social media accounts and contribute to the work of FOJMP committees.

FOJMP will notify Friends and others who sign up on our website of upcoming park events and projects, and all are invited to attend the FOJMP board meetings and our annual meeting. See the FOJMP website for dates and times.

Please visit the Joaquin Miller Park website at www.fojmp.org, where you can download a full-size color copy of the park trail map and learn about volunteer opportunities. Questions: (510) 47FOJMP (473-6567) or info@fojmp.org

Any contribution of $25 or more makes you a Friend of Joaquin Miller Park for one year. Larger amounts are gratefully appreciated as well.
